

Introduction

This web-based document presents the details of a series of conversations from August to October 2022. The conversations, a unique partnership between the American Institutes for Research® (AIR®) and JustLeadershipUSA (JLUSA), featured a series of facilitated group discussions with individuals returning to the community from across the United States. For each group discussion, we spoke with men and women who were previously incarcerated to better understand their experiences with reentry and their input on how to improve reentry services.
